Customer Reviews

These are wonderfully complex (without being frustrating, which some of the so-called "stress-relieving" coloring books can be, with the designs guaranteed to give you a migraine. This is fun to color, and look lovely hung on a window. The paper is described as "translucent" ... which means it's not regular paper, but a special kind that is semi-opaque, so that it does in fact have a stained glass effect when held against the light or placed in sunny windows. It's especially good for watercolors, which themselves are translucent, so you really get a fabulous effect when you hang it in a window. Also, using watercolors at least (I can't say about other mediums), you can see the colors on both sides perfectly!

Love it. This book is similar to the Arabid pattern by same company which I will also review.

I returned from a visit to Granada, Spain and Al Hambra and I couldn't resist this fun coloring book. Every time I color or paint the delicate geometric tiles, I remember the walls of Granada.
